Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Will for the Deed, a Comedy, in Three Acts: As Performed at the Theatre-Royal, Covent-Garden Prologue, Written by the Author of the Comedy; Spoken by Mr. Brunton. Ye, awful disposers of bays, and of laurels, Ye, just arbitrators of critical quarrels, I approach from a bard, who, with proud recollection, Attributes his all to your lib ral protection, Who has yearly sent venture, in hopes of your smile, From the English Fleet to the Mouth of the Nile; And dispatches me now, in most desperate need, To entreat you ll accept of the Will for the Deed. In this life, so bechequer d with Fortune s vagaries, Whose good and ill agents dance round us like fairies, Each turn of whose wheel leaves some worse, and some better, The poor man makes rich, or the rich man a debtor; To smooth the rough road, where such aid has been wanted, In each honest heart has kind Destiny planted A sentiment - part of Humanity s creed, To accept, where we can, of the Will...
