Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Follies of the Positive Philosophers: Address to the University Normal School of North Carolina, Delivered at Chapel Hill, June 26, 1878 It is not my purpose to-day to discuss elaborately a particular subject, much less to attempt to make a rhetorical display. The line of thought intended to be offered can be better presented in a lively conversational style, than by earnest declamation. Intellectual instruction can be more successfully conveyed in such a mode than by that species of turgid declamation which, like the mock thunder of the stage, attempts to impose itself on the ignorant for eloquence. Even real eloquence which arouses the passions of men and drives them forward under the enthusiasm of the moment, often fails to leave distinct and permanent intellectual images on the mind. Jefferson said that after Patrick Henry had concluded a speech, one could scarcely remember what he had said. I have myself listened to speeches, which wrought most strongly on my feelings, as well as those of the audience present, and yet in several instances, after they were finished, it was not possible to recall much of that which had produced the impression. A fine band of music greatly enlivens the imagination and excites the feelings, but leaves no distinct intellectual images which can be recalled. As so large a part of the audience I am now about to address, consists of those engaged in conveying instruction to others, these suggestions appear to be appropriate. Since the beginning of the earliest historic ages, two branches of science have been recognized and distinguished under the general terms of natural and moral philosophy. The first confines itself to the...
