

General Science Instruction in the Grades: Part I. a Quantitative Analysis of General Science Texts, Part II. the Reaction of Children of the Last Three Grammar Grades to Science (Classic Reprint)

By Hanor A Webb

Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from General Science Instruction in the Grades: Part I. A Quantitative Analysis of General Science Texts, Part II. The Reaction of Children of the Last Three Grammar Grades to Science The presentation of General Science may be defined as a method of teaching the laws of Nature and their applications in the inventions of man without considering the boundaries of those groups into which scientific knowledge is usually divided: astronomy, botany, chemistry, physics, physiography, . z ology. The method is not new, for books treating of natural phenomena in this general manner were published fifty years and more ago as readers for the schools, and at any given date in the last half century one or more such texts have been on the market. In many, if not most, of them the biological phases of science as embodied in Nature Study have predominated. The present tide of interest in the content and method of General Science dates from about 1912, when the publication of texts in rapid sequence was begun. The United States Commissioner of Educations...

READ ONLINE
[3.04 MB]

Reviews

This is the finest book i have got study right up until now. I am quite late in start reading this one, but better then never. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.

-- Keanu Johns

This is the finest book i have read until now. It is filled with wisdom and knowledge You can expect to like just how the author compose this ebook.

-- Tobin Lesch