Excerpt: .that When the Highlanders arrived they had with them a number of horses which they had taken from the dragoons at the battle of Preston, and while grooming these animals they were heard to call to them Stand about, Cope! showing their contempt for the unfortunate general of that name. While in Jedburgh, Prince Charles was saluted with marks of devout homage, and many of the women ran out to him in the streets to kiss his hand. After the army had left the town, the Prince rode back to see that none of his men were left behind, and on ascertaining the fact, he galloped away again and overtook the column at a short distance from the burgh. The division of the Highland army which came to Jedburgh was commanded by the Prince in person, and consisted of the three M Donald regiments,...
