Brand New Book  Print on Demand .The problem of poverty dominates the discussions of all world leaders. Despite the rapid and amazing advance of science and technology the problem remains unsolved. Various measures are evolved and implemented by governments all over the world to manage resources effectively and realize the maximum benefits to the people badly hit by poverty. Every country wants higher economic growth. Material prosperity has come to be recognized as an important measure of a country's success. Similarly the capacity to command wealth is considered as the measure of individual's success. While the country wants to grow in terms of national income the individual wants to prosper by commanding more resources for a higher standard of living. Despite all these efforts the problem of poverty remains and poses a perennial challenge. The growth in national income and per capita income is rendered insignificant. It is often neutralized by inflation and a growing population. Some times the situation worsens due to the scarcity of essential goods and services. In a democracy the resource of power is vested in the elected representatives of the people and it takes various forms. It is exercised by the executive, legislature and the judiciary. While driving a car we know the power flow is regulated by coordinating the various functions discharged by the gear, clutch, accelerator, brake and the steering. Similarly the elected representatives of the people are expected to use the resource in a coordinated manner for the eradication of poverty. This is possible in two ways. 1. Augmenting essential resources increasing their productivity and channelizing them primarily to meet the basic requirements of the poor and 2. Conserving them. Conservation...
